

About me.

Hi!

I'm Robert. I work across finance, business and music, combining a structured approach with a creative mindset. I enjoy turning ideas into something real, whether that means improving a business process or managing a live event.

In my current role in IT consulting, I work with contracts, finance, administration and process development. In parallel, I run projects in the music and live events industry, which has given me experience in everything from budgeting and strategy to artist booking and production. I'm a curious and solution-oriented person who enjoys learning new things and figuring out how things work.

One project that is particularly close to my heart is Alive Concert, where, together with a speaker and an artist, I combine music with knowledge and conversations about mental health. Taking the project from idea to delivery has given me experience in everything from concept and funding to marketing and production.

I believe my strength lies in the combination of business, structure, creativity and people. I am used to taking responsibility, getting to grips with new areas and driving things forward, while valuing good collaboration and a pleasant working environment.

Outside work, you'll usually find me playing sports, doing some hobby carpentry or working on various projects with generative AI. I like to travel, appreciate a good restaurant and have a documented weakness for coffee.

Thank you for taking the time to read this. I hope we get the chance to meet in person!

All the best,
Robert
